

BUC SDG 11

Sustainable cities & communities

Badr university in Cairo's major intentions were to support arts and heritage. This is illustrated by contributing to local arts, annual public performances of diverse fields of arts. BUC records and preserves cultural heritage through delivering projects which supports different traditions and knowledge. BUC aims to sustainable commuting targets through increasing green areas, pedestrian, and public access to library, museums, and open and green spaces.

In 2020-2021, even though the challenges BUC faced during the pandemic year. BUC kept organizing events, exhibitions, seminars, and festivals for preserving arts and heritages with precautionary measures. Last year, BUC held several events such as: sporting day, mother day, police day celebration along with welcoming multiple prestigious visitors; the Ukrainian cultural advisor and the cultural advisor of the state of South Sudan.

School of Applied arts organized fascinating exhibitions such as fashion shows with modern designs, La mod festival for fashion industry, fashion symposium honored by Hani El-Behairy (the famous international fashion designer). Besides, LED origami Fashion project for first year students and student's activities exhibitions. BUC (School of applied Arts) earned first place in new capital beautification contest, where they designed and built sculptural arts at three different locations at the new capital city in Egypt. A student in the School of Applied arts innovated smart canes for blind people to facilitate their walking in public places.

School of film making and performing arts organized Filipino exhibition and show La strada film, ballet show, ballet shows, Tres court film festival for short films, and international film festival for documentaries & short and participated in 9th Ebdaa festival. Despite the pandemic, BUC kept on track in supporting arts and heritage.