

The Quality Assurance Unit (QAU) of the Faculty of Medicine at Badr University was established in 2020 as part of the university's commitment to achieving excellence in medical education and aligning institutional performance with national and international quality standards. Since its inception, the Unit has played a key role in promoting a culture of continuous improvement across all academic, administrative, and clinical activities within the faculty. It has supported the development and periodic review of academic programs, ensured compliance with the standards of the National Authority for Quality Assurance and Accreditation of Education (NAQAAE), and facilitated capacity building through training and awareness initiatives. Over time, the QAU has evolved into a central mechanism for monitoring performance, enhancing educational outcomes, and strengthening the faculty's contribution to healthcare education, research, and community service.
